

2020 North American PPA cancellation updates (March 19, 2020):

Presentations: Our website does not have the capacity to handle the posting of all the podium presentations and posters. Anyone who has an accepted abstract will automatically be able to present their work next year at the Baltimore meetings in the format that it had been accepted for (podium or poster). Individuals who had an accepted abstract and withdrew this abstract in response to covid-19 before the conference was cancelled will also have this opportunity. This may result in a parallel session or an early start on Monday April 5, 2021 in Baltimore. Presented abstracts will be published in the 2021 Baltimore program.

Eve Cockburn Student Award and IJPP Jane E. Buikstra Early Career Award: These competitions are cancelled this year, as part of the adjudication is the presentation of the research and presenter's response to questions. Individuals who entered these competitions in 2020 with accepted abstracts will be able to have their presentation be part of next year's Baltimore competitions in the same category (poster or podium) even if the presenter no longer falls within the 'student' or 'early career' window of opportunity.

Workshops/symposium: We will discuss the possibilities for rescheduling the 2020 scheduled workshops/symposium with the organizers during the summer.
